8/9/2018 · The most difficult part is other members of my family just don't seem to get it, but that's ok. I am what I am, no more, no less. I too feel very dysfunctional just struggle to get through each day. My dad owned a camp out in the country where we use to go a lot. I no longer can go there because the pain and thoughts are just too much.

14/8/2013 · My 36 year old son just died of a fentanyl overdose. It was a week before anyone found him, a horrible way for your child to die. 4 years ago my husband lost his 24 year old daughter to an overdose of Meth. How much more can we endure – two deaths in two years is way too much to handle. We each had a child die of an overdose.
